

I thoroughly studied the Scrum and in this document i have pasted the screenshots How i practically performed SCRUM at JIRA.

1) Creating a BackLog:

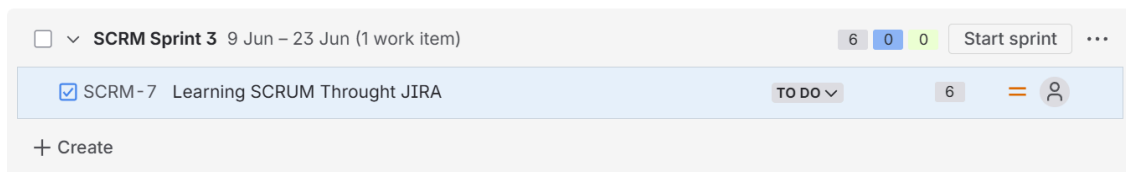

Explanation: I created a BackLog in JIRA. A backlog is the queue of work. It can be done or not done. We move tasks from backlog to sprints.

2) Moving Backlog task to a sprint:

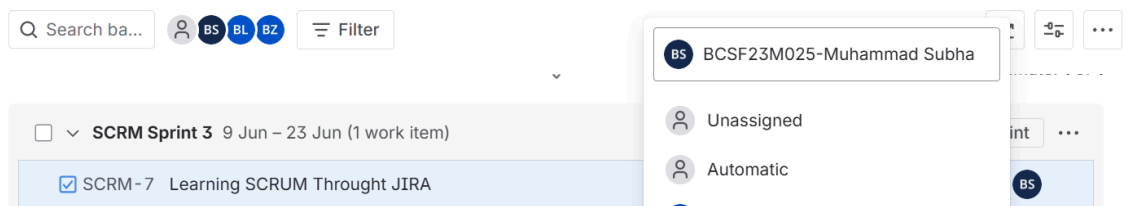

Explanation: I moved the task from BackLog to The Sprint. A sprint is a Fixed Time Box. Team commits to a small, testable slice to acheive a goal

3) Assigning Story Points to a Sprint:

Explanation: I assigned a story point of 6 to this Sprint. Story points in Jira are a relative unit of measure used by Scrum teams to estimate the overall effort, complexity, and risk required to complete a task or user story.

4) Assigning Sprint to a Team Member:

Explanation: After Sprint Planning and creating sprint the next step is to assign the sprint to one of the team member, It is assigned by the Team Leader. Here i assigned this sprint to myself. So i have to complete this sprint. A general time period of a sprint is about 1-2 weeks.

5) Starting the Sprint:

Explanation: The member who is assigned the sprint works on it, when the sprint is completed the assigned member marks it as done so all the team knows that a specific Sprint has been completed.
